Objection to Shipments of Munitions to Allies Vigorous in Tone.

Declares Spirit of Law Is Violated by Proportions the Trade Has Assumed

The complete text of the Austro-Hungarian note to the United States government, protesting against the trade in war material between the United States and the allies, was made public here last night by the Austro-Hungarian Embassy Upon receiving the permission of the United States government, the Austro-Hungarian government made its note public in Vienna early in July, but only portions of it were cabled to the United States. By an accident a whole page of the note was lost in transmission from the American Embassy in Vienna to Washington, so that the State Department will for the first time have before it the complete text of the note when to-day's papers are published. The missing page is coming by mail, but has not yet been received.

The complete text reveals more clearly than the press reports, the lengths to which the dual monarchy goes in objecting to the sale of war materials to the alies by persons in the United States.

Wants Embargo Declared. The note admits the trade is permitted by law, but declares that the spirit of the law is violated by the proportion which this trade has assumed in the United States. It asks, therefore, that the United States enact legislation imposing an embargo on the shipment of war materials to the allies. If—as is the case—the United States should consider this an act of unneutral character toward the allies. Austria-Hungary suggests that this objection nay be got around by:

lies that unless they permit Germany and Austria-Hungary to import "food-stuffs and raw materials" from the United States, the United States will cut off their supply of such articles from the United States. This last proposal is justified by the Austro-Hungarian government on the

There is no doubt entertained here that the note sent from Vienna had its inspiration in Berlin. Having already made representations regarding the trade in arms and ammunition, the German gov.
